How to Resolve America's Immigration Crisis

HOW TO RESOLVE AMERICA'S IMMIGRATION CRISIS

Thursday, November 17

6:30-8:00 p.m. | MRRL Art Gallery

More than most issues today, debates over immigration are caught up in our image of ourselves as a nation and a people and are influenced by powerful symbols such as the Statue of Liberty or even "the border" that can be manipulated and misunderstood by all parties to the debate. To make any progress toward resolving the conflicting interests at stake in immigration policy, we need to reconsider some basic aspects of this complex and fraught issue.

The Library is honored to host Dr. Peter Skerry, professor of political science at Boston College and a Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Culture at the University of Virginia, for a program that will address these important national issues. Skerry is a contributing editor at American Purpose and a member of the editorial board of Society.

Art Reception: Damsel in the Press

ART RECEPTION: DAMSEL IN THE PRESS: A MISSOURI PRINTMAKING EXCHANGE

Sunday, November 20

2:00-4:00 p.m. | MRRL Art Gallery

Shelly Forbis is a printmaker who earned a BFA in printmaking from Truman State University. She began hosting printmaking exchanges under the Damsel in the Press mantel in 2012. In the case of print exchanges hosted by Damsel in the Press, each artist receives one of every print submitted to the exchange. The original motivation for Damsel in the Press was to keep a means of communication open with other Truman State printmaking alumni. Now the exchange is a means of connecting artists from all over the USA and a few printmakers from overseas. The current display represents Missouri artists from 10 different printmaking exchanges.
